Key stages of the IDR process and time frames associated with each stage

LJHHL treats all complaints with the utmost respect and priority. The following information details the four key stages associated with our disputes handling process and the time frames for completion associated with each stage.

Acknowledgement

LJHHL will acknowledge receipt of all complaints (wherever possible in writing) within 24 hours of receipt, or one business day.

Assessment

An initial assessment of the complaint will be performed within 48 hours of receipt, or two business days.

The complaint will be subject to an initial assessment to identify the severity, implications, complexity, impact and likely time required to complete an investigation and provide a final response.

It is the intention of LJHHL to resolve all complaints as quickly as possible and therefore every effort will be made to resolve the complaint by the end of the fifth business day of receiving a complaint. However, should the initial assessment identify that a detailed investigation is warranted then LJHHL will inform the complainant that an investigation has commenced and that a final response will be provided at the conclusion of the investigation, which will be no later than 30 calendar days after receiving the complaint.

Investigation

As per preceding point, after completion of the initial assessment, if the complaint cannot be resolved within 5 business days of receipt of the complaint, then LJHHL will inform the complainant that an investigation has commenced and that a final response will be provided no later than 30 calendar days after receiving the complaint.

The level of investigation required will be dictated by the severity or complexity of the complaint and all reasonable effort will be made to fully investigate each and every complaint received and respond within 30 calendar days. Timely and accurate provision of information is important to ensure a speedy resolution for both parties.

Throughout the investigation period, LJHHL may be required to request information and documentation from numerous parties and individuals associated with the complaint, which may include seeking additional information from the complainant.

Final Written Response

LJHHL will make every effort to resolve all complaints before the end of the fifth business day of receiving a complaint. Should this occur because LJHHL has either:

- a) resolved the complaint to the complainant's satisfaction; or
- b) given the complainant an explanation and/or apology when the firm can take no further action to reasonably address the complaint, then LJHHL is not required to provide a final written response unless it is specifically requested by the complainant.

Should LJHHL be unable to resolve a complaint before the end of the fifth business day of receiving a complaint, then LJHHL will provide the complainant with a final written response within 30 calendar days of receiving the complaint, informing them of:

- a) the final outcome of their complaint at the conclusion of LJHHL's IDR process;
- b) their right to take their complaint to the AFCA; and
- c) the contact details of AFCA where they can take their complaint.

If LJHHL rejects or partially rejects the complaint, the final written response will clearly set out the reasons for the decision by:

- a) identifying and addressing the issues raised in the complaint;
- b) setting out LJHHL's findings on material questions of fact and referring to the information that supports those findings; and
- c) providing enough detail for the complainant to understand the basis of the decision and to be fully informed when deciding whether to escalate the matter to AFCA or another forum.

If LJHHL is unable to respond to a complaint within 30 calendar days due to circumstances beyond its control, or resolution of the individual complaint is particularly complex, it must before the end of the 30-calendar day period give the complainant an 'IDR delay notification' that:

- a) informs the complainant of the reasons for the delay;

- b) advises the complainant of their right to complain to AFCA; and
- c) provide the complainant with the name and contact details of AFCA.
